

Other Equipment Rule 4-2

Technological advances in joint braces have made them safer over the past decade. Here, a commercially manufactured knee brace does not need a protective sleeve. There are no exposed edges or projecting metal or other hard plates.

Points of Emphasis:

Knee Braces – Technological advances in “joint” braces have made them safer over the past decade.

A commercially manufactured knee brace does not need a protective sleeve as long as there is no exposed metal. Check all knee braces BEFORE the game and let player and coach know if it needs to be covered.